Celebration of “Constitution Day” at ICAR-Directorate of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants Research (DMAPR), Anand, Gujarat (26/11/2019)

The Directorate of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants Research (DMAPR) has celebrated “Constitution day” on 26.11.2019. Two programs were arranged in this regard. One “Constitution awareness” program was conducted in Malataj Village in which approximately 100 farmers participated and taken pledge of preamble of the Indian Constitution as per the Council’s guidelines. Another programme was conducted at this Directorate in which all staff members of ICAR-DMAPR and farmers from nearby villages participated. Dr. Satyajit Roy, Director has delivered pledge of Preamble of the Constitution in the central auditorium hall. This was followed by a brief information about the genesis and development of Indian constitution by Dr. K.A. Kalariya, Scientist. He has delivered useful information regarding importance of the Indian Constitution especially the preamble. Sh. Ganatra Naresh Jaysinh, Assistant Administrative Officer has describe in detail about the Constitutional rights provided by the Indian Constitution. Dr. R.P. Meena, Scientist has given lectures on fundamental duties prescribed in the Constitution. He also pondered on our duties towards the nation and how can one use the rights provided by the constitution. Dr. Satyajit Roy, highlighted at the end in brief about the importance of “Constitution Day”. The programme concluded with the national anthem.

(Source: AKMU, ICAR-Directorate of Medicinal and Aromatic Plants Research, Anand, Gujarat)